SOCIAL EVENTS.

Saturday evening the Natoma Camp Fire group under the guardianship of Miss Katherine Blagham held a public ceremonial meeting in the parlors of the South church.

The purpose was to give to Camp Fire friends an opportunity to witness the ceremonies that occur when the beads and ranks are awarded the girls for the work they have accomplished and the records read of the various meetings.

The regular beautiful form of meeting was excellently given by the guardian and girls, who also demonstrated various honors they had won.

A count of the grand council meeting of all the groups had been prepared in rhyme by Dorothy Adams and one, also in rhyme, of the meetings of the Natoma group since the meeting by Mary Campbell, both of which received much praise.

Especially effective were the songs given by the girls accompanied by Marjorie Cramton with the violin. The entrance song that had been written by Miss Bingham for the use at the meetings has been awarded a prize by the National Board of Camp Fires.

After the meeting candy, Easter cards and flowers were on sale and the girls served tea, and wafers to their guests. The table was decorated with candles forming the Wheloh triangle, the symbol of all Camp Fires.

The Whist Club had a banquet on Thursday evening Miss Isabel F. Noyes entertained at dinner Miss Marjorie Smith, the teacher, and the members of the cooking class who have just completed their course under Miss Smith.

An attractive menu comprised principally of dishes learned during the course was served, and the evening much enjoyed by all.

Mrs. George A. Martin entertained the members of her Sunday school class on Monday evening at the parsonage. Progressive games were played at six tables, the prizes being awarded to Wendell Cowles and Fred Lougee. Refreshments were served and music on the Victrola enjoyed.

Mrs. Guy W. Hill was the hostess for the meeting of the Grace Unity Club on Friday evening. Officers were elected as follows: President, Mrs. Roy N. Howard; first vice-president, Mrs. H. H. Miltimore; second vice-president, Mrs. W. C. Harvey; secretary, Mrs. H. E. Eldridge; treasurer, Mrs. Fred Elliott.

On Saturday evening, Mrs. J. G. Howe and Mrs. W. E. Cheney entertained a party of friends at the home of Mrs. Cheney on Western avenue.

Progressive whist was played at five tables. The prizes were won by Mr. and Mrs. R. M. McGillivray and Mrs. H. H. Somers and H. H. White, received consolation prizes. New sugar was served.

The Newcomers Club spent a very pleasant afternoon with Mrs. Henry Stetson last Thursday.

On Friday night the Search Light Club and Missionary Round Table had an old-fashioned spelling match at the parlors of the South church which furnished entertainment to a good number of their friends.

A musical program preceded the match and consisted of a vocal duet by Messrs. E. A. Silsby and H. N. Wood, a vocal solo by Mrs. Herbert W. Alodgett, piano duet by the Misses Maude Brown and Jean Stanley, drum solo by Matilda Howe and several numbers by the new Summer street school orchestra which is directed by Miss Glenn Robinson. This was the first appearance of the orchestra outside the school and it received such a cordial welcome that it ought to have courage to favor other entertainments.

The two sides for the spelling match were headed by Miss Jean Stanley and Miss Katherine Eaton and the words were given out by Miss Kate Wakefield. After about an hour's endeavor Round Table spelled down the Searchlight Club and of the four members who were left standing three went down on vermicelli.

Mrs. James Sanborn was the winner and received a beautiful pot of narcissus as prize. New sugar was served after the match. The proceeds will go to some charity.

The Ladies Aid Society of Grace M. E. church held their annual meeting Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Amos W. Scott. The following officers were elected: President, Mrs. E. E. Sargent; first vice-president, Mrs. E. E. Wadleigh; second vice-president, Mrs. T. R. Stiles; secretary, Mrs. C. E. Darling; treasurer, Mrs. E. P. Hamilton; auditor, Mrs. H. B. Howe; chairman of flower and charity fund, Mrs. W. C. Rodd.

The masquerade given by the senior class at the Academy Thursday evening was one of the prettiest affairs ever given at the school. A large number were in costume, many of them elaborate and beautiful and they presented a pretty sight as they promenaded and danced. The prizes were awarded by the judges to Arthur Stanley and Miss Dorothy Adams, while the booby prize went to Ora Bailey.

Mrs. Harry Underwood very pleasantly entertained a few friends March 24 at a tea party in honor of Mr. Underwood's birthday. This was a complete surprise to him.

Saturday afternoon Hazel Patrick very pleasantly entertained her friends at her home on State street in honor of her tenth birthday. The afternoon was spent playing games. Refreshments were served and the little friends left numerous gifts to remind her of the occasion.

Last Friday Mrs. E. Potter very pleasantly entertained the 50 O. O. After the regular order of the meeting was over, Mrs. Potter entertained her guests by reading several very interesting pieces. At 6 o'clock they adjourned to the dining room which was tastefully decorated for the occasion, where an elaborate supper was served. The evening was passed in a social manner. All thanked the hostess for such a pleasant time and wished her many happy returns of the day.

JULIUS CAESAR AT THE GLOBE
Great Play Arranged at Great Expense to be Presented Next Wednesday.

Hailed as the "last word" in picture making, George Kleine's "Julius Caesar" visits the Globe Theater for a limited engagement on Wednesday, April 7. Vastly exceeding in its spectacular effects even his famous "Quo Vadis," this mammoth subject is the produce of 18 months of unremitting toil and the services of more than 20,000 people. There will be three exhibitions of this great play. Afternoon at 2:15, evening at 7 and again at 8:45.

Dealing with the early life of Caesar, the story follows him through his conquests in Gaul, his epoch-making quarrel with Pompey and his assassination many years later at the foot of his old enemy's statue. The scenes of his return from Gaul and the views of his great funeral procession are unquestionably the most extraordinary bits of picture-making in the history of this interesting business. For seven minutes without interruption, the projecting machine clicks off nearly five hundred feet of film stamped with the image of thousands of picturesquely garbed people including soldiers, statesmen and the populace of Rome, the chiefs of the conquered tribes of all known nations, in triumphal procession.

Anthony Novelli, whose splendid work in "Quo Vadis" and "Anthony and Cleopatra" won him world-wide laurels, plays Caesar. His physique, mannerisms and rare histrionic ability make him an ideal selection for the part. Undoubtedly "Julius Caesar" is his greatest work.

Supporting him is an able cast which includes many of the well-known artists of "Quo Vadis" and "Anthony and Cleopatra." Jeanette Trimble, who played Cleopatra in the Egyptian classic, carries the role of Caesar's wife, while Mastroianni, the Chilo of "Quo Vadis" gives an interesting and striking picture of the great Cato.

A joint meeting of the Rector's Aid Society and St. Margaret's Guild will be held on Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Mary Menut.
